Rules are made to be broken

Your editor expresses mixed feelings about TTNB rules updates

Our initiative of carrying regular updates on the rules in TTNB was intended to point out what changes took place in the major overhaul in January 2019 and remind readers of rules that did not change but nonetheless are still relevant and important.

One such rule was covered in Issue 083 (April 15 2019) and is the issue of playing outside the teeing area that includes playing from the wrong set of tee markers.

We pointed out in that issue that committing such a misdemeanour in stroke play means that you must correct the error by playing a ball from inside the correct teeing area and take a two shot penalty. If you do not correct the mistake, you are disqualified.

Playing off the whites on Saturday after an unusually tidy front nine I played off the yellow tees on 12 that were no more than four or five yards in front of the whites. Unfortunately, I could hardly claim that I had not read the relevant issue of TTNB so there was no chance of clemency from my remarkably well-informed playing partners. This is just the outcome that the TTNB rules initiative was intended to achieve but not necessarily, from my point of view, with such immediate and personal consequences.

PS Remember, there is no penalty in match-play and you play your ball as it lies, but your opponent may cancel the stroke and ask you to play again from the correct teeing area.
